Careers in Health Sciences

March 22 | 10:30am – 12:30pm | K1-107

Hear a panel of professionals and talk one-on-one about career opportunities.

Health science is a growing field and is increasingly popular among college students because of its countless career opportunities. Students that complete the clinical/technical programs graduate fully prepared for careers in biotechnology and clinical medical labs. Students pursuing careers in physical therapy, nutrition and dietetics, and nursing will graduate well prepared for acceptance into respective transfer or graduate programs.
