CCC | California Land Acknowledgement and Tribal Consultation Toolkit for Serving AIAN Students

The purpose of this tribal consultation toolkit is to encourage all faculty, staff, administrators and students to acknowledge the original Nations on whose land we work, learn and live. The California Community Colleges recognizes that land acknowledgements provide a foundation for consultation and relationship building with Tribal governments and partners throughout the state.

This toolkit was created in collaboration with the National Indian Justice Center, California Indian Museum and Cultural Center, California Indian Culture and Sovereignty Center, Naqmayam Communications and Foundation for California Community Colleges. The land acknowledgement statement was developed in partnership with the California Tribal Chairpersons' Association. Most importantly, this training provides historical and political context, important demographics and the processes and protocols for meaningful and consistent consultation with California Indian Tribes.

Language Equity in Academia: Reimagining kNowledge (LEARN) Conference

For the third year in a row, we're calling out "standard English" as the marker of intelligence and academic success. Language Equity in Academia: Reimagining kNowledge (LEARN) Conference, hosted by Glendale Community College and Las Positas College on Friday, March 29, 2024 from 9 am to 4:30 pm PST over Zoom.

We're excited to host interactive presentations and workshops, a faculty panel and a student panel — all focusing on various ways to bring language/linguistic equity to curricula across the disciplines and overall campus culture.

We are thrilled to present our opening keynote: Sunn m'Cheaux — a Gullah teacha, prominent social media activist and Harvard scholar!

This is a great opportunity for educators from all areas and those invested in campus equity to join us for a transformative conference dedicated to advancing social justice and language equity.
