

2024-2025 Financial Aid Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) Appeal Form & Process Guide

INSTRUCTIONS (in order):

1. Student Academic Plan (Academic Program Plan) from Counseling, based on your current Academic goal as stated on your Appeal Form. [NOTE: IF you appealed in 2024-2025 and are still following the same signed Academic Plan as is on file in the Financial Aid Office, you will not need to submit a new copy. Additionally you will only be permitted to follow 1 (ONE) Student Academic Plan] Visit the Counseling Center (K1-203) to make an appointment with an Academic Counselor. If you are an EOPS, DSPS or Veterans student, please see your assigned counselor in that program. Please visit the counseling web page for detailed information: <http://www.sdmiramar.edu/campus/counseling>
2. Appeal Form [pages 5 - 6]. Please NOTE: THIS IS AN APPEAL. You have been disqualified from receiving any Financial Aid. Submitting an appeal form will not guarantee that you will receive financial aid funding. Include hospital bills, death certificate(s), and/or other documentation to support your claim. Appeal forms may not be approved without supporting documentation of your extenuating circumstance as stated in the Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) for Financial Aid brochure. The Financial Aid Office highly recommends attending a workshop that focuses on the Appeal Process. There will be workshops offered during the semester Appeal Submission window. Please check with the Financial Aid office and/or check the website for more details (<http://www.sdmiramar.edu/campus/financial-aid>). Attendance does not guarantee an approval, but may help give you a better understanding of the appeal as a tool for re-instatement.

The decision of the Appeal Committee is FINAL.

SAN DIEGO MIRAMAR COLLEGE

- Your completed Appeal Form along with all supporting documentation must be in the Financial Aid Office according to the dates indicated on the appeal form or your last day of classes for the term (whichever comes first). See Appeal Processing Deadlines on page 1.
- All appeals are reviewed in the order with which they are received.
- During peak periods, which are July through October and December through February, the review process may take up to four weeks
- Your completed Appeal Form must clearly state your academic Program of Study {formerly Major}. This Program of Study and your Academic Goal must match your Student Academic Plan.
- Your explanation must be specific and concise. Incomplete information may cause a denial or delay in your appeal petition. Incomplete forms will not be evaluated and may be denied.
- Include a detailed explanation of the measures that you have taken to ensure that your academic performance will improve and/or what actions you have taken to correct the circumstances that created your prior lack of academic progress as defined.
- Do not explain your need for financial aid as part of your rationale.. The Committee is aware that any student filing an appeal is doing so based on financial need.
- The Appeal Form will be reviewed as submitted. It is NOT the responsibility of the Financial Aid Office to know if an appeal is submitted “complete” and with all supporting documentation. Once the Appeal Committee has decided, no additional documents can be added. Suppose the Financial Aid office learns of any prior academic history not revealed when your appeal form is submitted to the Financial Aid office and your appeal was ‘approved’ by the Appeal Committee based on incomplete academic history. In that case, the decision may be rendered void, and the appeal denied. Any aid you may have received must be repaid.

NOTE: Your Financial Aid Appeal and the Financial Aid Appeal process is being evaluated for the following “Student Learning Outcomes”: ability to analyze problems, weight of evidence, ability to effectively communicate and civic and personal responsibility.

The decision of the Appeal Committee is FINAL.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR PREPARING AN S.A.P. APPEAL FOR SUBMISSION

Each appeal submitted is reviewed for consideration based on its own merit and the evidence of circumstances beyond the student's control.

- What is considered a circumstance beyond the student's control?

A few examples of situations that may contribute to a circumstance that is beyond the student's control are: documented death in the immediate family during the period(s) of poor progress, documented serious illness of the student or the student's immediate family, documented injury from car accident, documented conflict between job and school schedule not created by the student that has been resolved and is not expected to reoccur.

- What is not considered a circumstance beyond the student's control?

A few examples of situations that are not considered as beyond the student's control are: lack of knowledge of financial aid and/or college academic regulations, taking classes without an Academic plan, changing majors, failing to drop classes before deadlines, not getting along with instructors, not taking school seriously, unresolved daycare issues, returning to school to obtain a new degree because it pays more, thinking that any of the conditions given by the Appeal Committee during a prior appeal petition expired after one year or no longer applied.

- Do you know why you have been disqualified from receiving financial aid?

It's possible to be disqualified in more than one area of academic progress as defined for financial aid recipients. Each area of disqualification must be clearly explained in your appeal petition. If you don't know why you have been disqualified please contact the Financial Aid Office.

- Is your Completion Rate below 67%?

Your Completion Rate is the percentage of courses that you've enrolled in and did not complete successfully by earning or receiving a "W", "F", "NP", "I" (Incomplete) or an "RD" (Grade Report Delayed). You must explain and document each "W", "F", "NP", "I" (Incomplete) or an "RD" (Grade Report Delayed), as they will appear in your academic history for financial aid up to and including the most recently completed Spring Semester. It is of no consequence if the course(s) may have been taken a long time ago, been re-taken for a better grade, or removed from your transcript. They all count toward financial aid standards of academic progress

- Is your Cumulative G.P.A. below 2.0?

Explain the reasons for your low G.P.A. Explain what personal or academic changes you have taken to successfully complete the units/courses attempted to improve your GPA.

- Do you already have a Degree?

If you have earned a college or university degree in the U.S. or from a Foreign College or University, the Appeal Committee needs to know why you are back in school, not using the degree. Per federal regulations, waiving credits from a foreign degree does not waive your degree. You must explain your new Academic objective and why you have made this change. It is advised that you discuss this Academic objective thoroughly with an academic counselor in order to address your expected completion, graduation or transfer date.

- Have you attempted more than 90 units (or more than 180 units for the HIM Bachelor's Degree pilot program students)?

You must explain why, after attempting more than 90 units (or more than 180 units for the HIM Bachelor's Degree pilot program students), you have not yet earned or received a degree and/or transferred to a 4-year university. Just like a student with a low completion rate, you are required to explain and submit any existing documentation for each course attempted in which you have received a "W", "F", "NP", "I" (Incomplete), or "RD" (Grade Report Delayed) and/or ALL courses that do not apply to your current Student Academic Plan that appear in your academic history up to and including the most recently completed Spring Semester, regardless of how long ago you may have received the grades.

Make sure that:

- The declared program of study on the Appeal Form is the same as the major stated on your Student Academic Plan.
- You enroll in classes required and included in the Academic Plan submitted for your appeal
